China Sportswear Sector

We expect prudent guidance but decent margins

Even though we are trimming our FY22E net profit forecasts, we believe the sector has already bottomed out in 1Q23E, supported by: 1) decent YTD retail sales growth, 2) turn around in inventory level and retail discounts. While we expect a more conservative FY23E guidance by the brands, we do see decent upside surprises from GP margin improvements, helped by better retail discounts and cheaper input costs, etc. Therefore, for brands with a higher DTC mix, we believe brands like Anta (2020 HK) and Topsports (6110 HK) are going to outperform.

- Factoring in the drags in 4Q22. Echoing Adidas's 50% YoY decline in the Greater China sales in 4Q22, we are not surprised to see pressure for various sportswear brands on their original FY22E retail sales target, mainly due to the sharp drop in offline SSS and the associating operating deleverage during late Oct to early Dec 2022. Apart from that, we also expect the list co level sales and net profit to be adversely affected, as a result of: 1) adjustments in trade fair orders, 2) buyback of inventories or 3) one-off support for distributors to clear inventories. As a whole, our sales/ net profit growth forecast for Anta, Li Ning and Xtep are +9%/ -6%, +13%/ +2% and +26%/ +2% in FY22E.
- Retail sales growth YTD in 2023 improved meaningfully, vs 4Q22, but a conservative guidance for FY23E is still likely. Based on our channel checks and estimations, we are forecasting mid-teens/ mid-teens/ lowteens/ mid-teens retail sales growth for Anta/ FILA/ Li Ning/ Xtep in 1Q23E, huge improvement from the -ve HSD/ -ve low-teens/ -ve HSD/ -ve HSD in 4Q22. This is evidenced by: 1) flattish sales growth for Pou Sheng in Jan-Feb 2023 (vs 20% drop in 4Q22) and 2) robust retail sales growth during CNY, about high-teens/ mid-teens/ flattish growth for domestic brands/ Nike/ Adidas, etc. Since contribution from CNY is huge, we believe the numbers in 1Q23E are pretty much locked in. There are certainly many positive catalysts for FY23E, such as: 1) absence of COVID-19 outbreaks and social distancing measures, 2) relaunches of various sporting events (Marathons, football and basketball competitions, etc.) and 3) reasonably decent trade fair orders sales growth (10%+/ flattish for domestic/ foreign brands). But to err on the side of caution, we would not be surprised to see the sportswear brand to stay cautious and give out a rather conservative FY23E guidance as follows: Li Ning: mid-teens retail sales growth (vs original target of highteens to low 20s in FY22E), Anta: high-teen retail sales growth (vs original target of 20%+ in FY22E and 18%-25% CAGR during FY20-25E), FILA: 10%+ retail sales growth (vs original target of 15%+ in FY22E), Xtep: highteens listed co level sales growth (vs 23% CAGR during FY21-25E).
- Our pecking order now is Anta (2020 HK) > Topsports (6110 HK) = Xtep (1368 HK) > Li Ning (2331 HK).

- However, more positives could be derived from GP margin improvements, backed by better retail discounts and lower input costs, etc.. Based on our channel checks, we believe retail discounts improved a lot in 1Q23E from the tough in 4Q22, which is now closer to 3Q22 level, but not yet returned to that in 1Q19, driven by reduced discounts for new products and a better new/ old product mix. For example, we forecast Xtep's retail discounts to be at around 25%-30% off in 1Q23E (vs 30% off in 4Q22 and 25% off in 1Q19 and 3Q22). This is also backed by turnaround in inventory to sales ratio, which should have been shortened by roughly 0.5 to 1.0 months in 1Q23E vs 4Q22. We see greater YoY improvements for Anta, FILA than Xtep and Li Ning. Moreover, as the prices of oil and synthetic fiber have continued to decline since 2H22E, plus the increases in ASP (MSD to HSD for domestic brands), we believe the GP margin in FY23E could be positively aided. Lastly, we believe FILA. Anta and Topsports can benefit more from this turnaround. thanks to their higher than average DTC sales mix, at about 100%, 66% and 82% in FY22E (vs 50% and 41% for Li Ning and Xtep).
- Domestic brands are still outperforming in 1Q23E, but foreign brands may catch up since 2Q23E. Foreign brands' retail sales growth were still slower vs domestic brands in 1Q23E, where Nike's retail sales had returned to positive growth while Adidas is still under pressure, esp. with drags such as: 1) YEEZY series sales suspension and 2) active inventory clearances by Adidas, in both channels and factories. Going forward, driven by low base (Tier 1 cities were hurt more in 1Q22) and normalization of new product launches and marketing campaign, foreign brands' retail sales growth may catch up to domestic brands' level, since 2Q23E.

CMB International Global Markets | Equity Research | Company Update

Anta Sports (2020 HK)

Set to benefit more from a higher DTC mix

- Decent retail sales growth YTD despite the high base last year. With retail sales growth at mid-teens level in Jan 2023, we believe the momentum has sustained into the CNY in 2023, even with the high base due to Winter Olympics. The trend is also decent in Mar 2023, thanks to the low base. Hence, we are now forecasting mid-teens/ mid-teens retail sales growth for both Anta/ FILA in 1Q23E, compared to HSD drop/ low-teens decline in 4Q22.
- The setup is good but we are cautious on FY23E guidance. Just because of: 1) absence of pandemic (up to 15%/ 30% of Anta/ FILA stores were closed during the peak of COVID-19), 2) HSD to close to 10% increases in ASP, and 3) the needs to clear excessive inventories (on top of the mid-teens level 1Q-3Q23E trade fair sales growth), we are confident on retail sales growth in FY23E. However, in our view, the management could still be cautious and give out a conservative guidance, like 15%+/ 10%+ retail sales growth for Anta/ FILA in FY23E.
- But we do prefer Anta over Li Ning in FY23E, due to its higher DTC sales mix and tier 1 cities exposure, which could lead to better GP margin improvements. During this first phase of China re-opening, even though the offline foot traffic has not fully recovered, but retail discount has already narrowed quickly, esp, when the intention for price war is low. Therefore, in this case, brands with a higher DTC mix (or lower wholesale mix), such as Anta and FILA could benefit more than Li Ning and Xtep.
- The outdoor sports is still in huge demand. During the latest "3-8/ Women" festival in China, over 78 subcategories under the sportswear segment reported 100%+ YoY increase in sales growth, including products like trail running shoes/ hiking shoes/ cycling jackets/ sun protection jackets, etc., on the JD.com platform, during 3 to 8 Mar 2023.
- Maintain BUY with TP of HK$ 123.25, based on 31x FY23E P/E, about 1 s.d. above the 5 years average of 26x, supported by 20% NP CAGR during FY21-25E. It is currently trading at 26x FY23E P/E.

Xtep (1368 HK)

4Q22 drags and back-loaded FY23E growth

- The worst should be over but we still have to factor in the negatives in FY22E. Given 1) trade fair orders adjustments in 2H22E, 2) lower than expected GP margin for inventory clearance (esp. for e-commerce during double 11 and double 12 festival) and 3) one-off subsidies given to distributors, we are cutting FY22E/23E/24E net profit est. by 4%/ 5%/ 4%.
- YTD retail sales growth continued to be strong, partly driven by inventory clearance and Xtep Kids. After the decent retail sales growth during pre-CNY (about 20%+, highlighted by management), we believe the growth remained quick in Feb- Mar 2023. Hence, we are forecasting high-teens growth for 1Q23E, partly due to its efforts to de-stock, as inventory clearance remains the top priority. Moreover, based on our channel check, its childrenswear sales growth is still rapid and being a key driver.
- Sales growth in 1H23E could still be slower than that in 2H23E. While management is guiding mid-teens listed co-level sales growth, it could be slower in 1H23E, because of its higher wholesale revenue mix.
- We still think Xtep's risk reward is attractive. We still think the risks reward for Xtep is high, as its FY25E target remains highly intact, supported by its smaller scale, plus its robust e-commerce and Xtep Kids retail sales growth. Comparing to Anta/ Li Ning's 20%/ 21% NP CAGR during FY21-25E, we believe Xtep's 26% NP CAGR is more attractive, esp. when it is only trading at 17x FY23E P/E, vs Anta/ Li Ning's 26x/ 28x.
- Maintain BUY with TP of HK$ 10.44, based on 21x FY23E P/E, about 1 s.d. higher than the 5 years average of 15x, supported by 26% NP CAGR during FY21-25E. It is currently trading at 17x FY23E P/E.

Li Ning (2331 HK)

Turning around but still dragged by GP margin

- Retail sales trend should be similar to peers in 4Q22 and should have turned around in 1Q23E. We estimate that its retail sales to fall by HSD in 4Q22 (inline with both Anta and Xtep) and to increase by low-teens in 1Q23E, which is already a decent level, esp. when we consider the high base last year (high-20s increase in 1Q22).
- Factoring in the drags in 4Q22. Factoring in 1) the miss in retail sales in 4Q22, 2) widened retail discounts in 4Q22E vs 3Q22, and 3) adjustments in 1Q-3Q23E trade fair sales orders, we are now revising down the FY22E/23E/24E net profit by 14%/9%/8%.
- No change in FY25E guidance but the target in FY23E should not be aggressive. With no change in industry potential and company's competitiveness, we believe Li Ning would reiterate its long-term target (double-digit retail sales CAGR during FY21-25E). However, with potentially slower ASP growth, we are only expecting its management to provide 15%+ retail sales growth guidance in FY23E.
- We prefer Li Ning less mainly because of its GP margin pressure in 1H23E. We do agree that Li Ning's inventory level is industry leading and remained extremely healthy (CMBI est. at around 4.5 to 5.0 months) even in 4Q22. But its retail discounts could still be high in 1Q23E, compared to that in 1Q22, which may limit its GP margin expansion in 1H23E.
- Maintain BUY with TP of HK$ 73.37, based on 32x FY23 P/E (up from 29x), at par with 5 years average of 32x, supported by 21% NP CAGR during FY21-25E. It is currently trading at 28x FY23E P/E.
